Harvest

There's nothing like eating food you've grown yourself. And it tastes even better if you've grown it in a community garden, helping people and making friends along the way! It's also a lovely way to teach children about where their food comes from and they'll be so excited to harvest their very own crops.

It can seem confusing at first; what to grow, when to sow, when to harvest. But it needn't be so complex. Use this simple, easy-to-follow vegetable planting calendar to help you get your crops in the ground and know when the time is right to start your harvest.

Be aware that the weather, soil and location of your community garden may cause slight variations in the dates shown here – but don't worry, all part of the fun. You can always expect a few surprises along the way when growing your own!

And if growing veg just isn't your thing – then check out Calliope's fantastic selection of spectacular geraniums to fill your community garden with some wonderful colour and Colour Your Life.
